As in 2011, we are partners of the JEL 2012 which will take place in Lyon, the 28th and 29th of June.

« Les Journées du E-Learning » is an international annual seminar gathering together specialists from different places and disciplines around the theme of education by Internet. This one of a kind event deals with the last evolutions of uses in terms of E-Learning. In 2006, the 1st edition of the “Journées du E-Learning” was launched. The growing success of this demonstration is understandable by its forward-looking dimension over the actual stakes and the ones to come of the E-Learning.

Our workshop will take place on June, Thursday 28th at 4pm and we will begin with the research project ANGELS. This year’s theme which reminds us that beyond the spread technology, what matters is the use that we make of this technology to elaborate an efficient E-learning training system. The aim of the project ANGELS – Augmented Reality Network Generating Learning on Safety – is to create a training tool on safety at work using the augmented reality (insertion of virtual 3D images to real images). The use of the augmented reality which allows the illustration of real situations in a virtual way, presents a certain advantage, as regards risks. Besides, in a second part, the users’ testimony of our serious games LEADERCRAFT range in personal skills will allow an exchange of point of views on the use of training tools stemming from New Technologies of Information and Communication, in particular from video games.
